Continuation of 3. NOTE: The new limitation contains the feature of "a predetermined number of enrollment incentives"; this is a newly added limitation that is new and has not been previously considered. The examiner will need to conduct new search before the examiner is able to determine the patentability of the claimed invention.

Continuation of 11. does NOT place the application in condition for allowance because: Two main arguments are recited in applicants after-final remarks; 1) No combination of Wolfe and Acres describes nor suggests permitting the unenrolled player to play a gaming device using an uncarded player account.", the examiner points that Wolfe's hot player tracking system is accounting for all play on the floor carded or uncarded; which means that an account of unenrolled players is create the instant a game is played on the floor, thus the uncarded account, and as described in claim one when a trigger event occurs, the player is advised to enrolled, and the Wolfe invention detects the hot player trigger, the player is advised to enter into the program; which qualifies as allowing players to play without a card inserted into the game. 2) "No combination of Wolfe and Acres describes nor suggests presenting the unenrolled player with enrollment incentives that the unenrolled player would have earned if enrolled in the player tracking system", all player tracking system including Acres have a chart of amenities and accrual points for the players to read, showing how much they would have earned with the amount of play so far. It is well-known in the art to show players what they are missing by not enrolling. Since the arguments are found not persuasive and have not overcome the rejections the examiner deems the rejections proper and the request does not place the application in condition of allowance.
